Tips to increase recycling in your office

Recycling at work is a critical part of reducing waste from entering the landfill. According to the EPA, 45% of trash is created at work. Here are some tips and tricks to increase recycling in your workspace.

1. Have centralized recycling bins that are in popular locations near trash cans.
2. Make it a competition between departments to see who is recycling more.
3. Send back empty ink cartridges after replacing the cartridge. Most ink companies provide a shipping label in its packaging.
4. Print on both sides of paper and use old paper as scraps for notes. Remember to recycle it once it can no longer be used.
5. Educate employees on the importance of recycling, environmentally, economically, etc. Did you know Lancaster-Fairfield Community Action's Recycling & Litter Program offers free environmental presentations and waste evaluations?!

You can recycle the following materials at LFCAA Recycling Center. Call 740-687-1295 for details.
